

SUNDAY BRIEFING

Ships Passing in the Night

BY PASTOR DON GARDNER

Life is a fascinatingly different experience for each of us. For some persons, they are born in one location and never seem to remove themselves from that place for most of their lives. For others, we can count the countries and states where we have lived but it takes every finger and toe to do so! Which life is better spent and more rewarding on a personal level? The answer to that question is simply that it isn't so important where we have traveled or lived but how we have used our time, valued the friends we have made along the way, and found joy in the daily experiences of serving our Lord.

If any of you have ever migrated between countries or states, you know what it is to leave friends behind as you make new relationships in the adopted location. There are risks involved and joys as well. The new connections will bring new opportunities for the Lord's service but, at the same time, you dream that your old friends will not forget you and will remember you. After all, especially with church friends, you spent years of your life with those friends and they have become family.

Jesus was not a world traveler and airplane travel was not on his agenda. Yet, he made friends and reached out to people each day with a goal of being impactful toward the spiritual needs of those he met. When you, or I, find ourselves moving to a new environment, it is indeed my hope that our FCBC friends will continue to support us in prayer and never forget us. The possibility of being a "ship that passes in the night" always exists when we move but that should never be the way we intentionally function. May we all KNOW that the Lord made us to care about each other even as we treasure each of the past moments and friendships that we have had throughout our lives.

Connect With Others

The best way for knowing about who God is and what God does is through the Bible. Though we all could read and study the Bible individually, we learn so much more when we read and study the Bible together in a group. Bible study groups at FCBC PHX offer a variety of options for all ages, with groups that meet during weekdays, evenings, or Sunday morning. Contact us!

The Arizona Jewish Historical Society is planning three different events, starting in fall 2021, to commemorate the 100-year history of the Cutler☆Plotkin Jewish Heritage Center, 122 E. Culver Street, immediately adjacent to Phoenix’s Margaret T. Hance Park. Recognized as a Phoenix Point of Pride, the historic building has been home to Congregation Beth Israel, which built it as the first synagogue in Phoenix in 1921; the First Chinese Baptist Church starting in 1951; Iglesia Bautista Central Church in 1981; and the Arizona Jewish Historical Society beginning in 2002.

- Gallery Centennial Exhibit--“If These Walls Could Talk” -- The Centennial exhibit will feature historic memorabilia, photos, narratives, garments and more, highlighting all four organizations that have called the building home. The exhibit opens Oct. 3, 2021 and runs through March 31, 2022. Hours are Monday through Friday, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. or by appointment. Recommended exhibit admission is $5, or attendees can make a voluntary donation of their choosing. Group discounts are available for organizations.
- The Heritage Center-- Over the past 100 years, the Heritage Center has hosted countless religious, social, and cultural community events. From 1921 to 1949, the building was the home of Congregation Beth Israel, and served as a religious sanctuary, community center and gathering place for the local Jewish community. In 1951, it began new life as First Chinese Baptist Church, where it served as a religious and social hub for Phoenix’s growing Chinese-American community. From 1981-2002, it was the home of a Spanish-speaking congregation, Iglesia Bautista Central. The Arizona Jewish Historical Society purchased the building in 2002 and renamed it as the Cutler☆Plotkin Jewish Heritage Center. The Society restored the building in 2009 as a museum, cultural center and event venue open to people of all backgrounds.
- Centennial Heritage Gala-- Honoring long-time AZJHS community leader Lawrence M. Cutler. The Gala is on Saturday evening, Oct. 30, at the Scottsdale Plaza Resort, 7200 N. Scottsdale Road. Visit the Gala webpage for more information or to register online.
- Centennial Festival-- Noon to 4 pm Sunday, Nov. 7, at the Cutler☆Plotkin Jewish Heritage Center, 122 E Culver Street. The event is free and open to the community, to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the building, the establishment of the first synagogue in Phoenix and the diverse community that has called the building home. The Centennial Exhibit will be open during the event, which also will include musical entertainment by Congregation Beth Israel, First Chinese Baptist Church, Monte Vista Cross-Cultural Church, and the Rural Street Klezmer Band; special guest speakers; food trucks; activities for children; and a photo booth.
