III. Hungry for the Father's Heart (v. 21-22)

IV. Find Truth in the Right Source (v. 25-32)

Words: "How Do You Love Your Church?"

No, I'm not talking about your love for the church facilities, the church youth program, the FLC, the church ministry staff, or the church organization. I'm asking how much you are concerned for the Kingdom of God via the people who make up the church family. Our facilities are only as valuable as their usage by the church, the people. I am always surprised when an individual abandons a local church to go "church shopping" rather than committing time to assist their church body to become more effective. Becoming dissatisfied as a youth or young adult toward the activities and nature of a mature church body is probably common. Certainly, I felt some of those feelings toward my church when I was young and I admit that I did switch churches several times between the time I was 16 and 25.

Changing churches, as I looked for something "better" only brought out the understanding that churches are made up of people of all ages. During university days, it is possible to find a body that is focused on students but, ultimately, I had to understand that no church is perfect and normally have a balance of various age groups represented. With that said, no church is ideal and all require membership that has "ownership" for the growth and discipleship found within that body.

My word of encouragement for today is that you look at FCBC, pray for spiritual and numerical growth of the body, and then seek out opportunities to be creative and proactive in seeing us develop ministries that bring glory to His name! You, nor I, require "church shopping" to become our approach to find our church's meaning for us. All we have to do is invest in the church that God has given us to serve within.
