WORDS: "We All Have a Story and Each One is Unique"

As a child being brought up by Christian parents, missing a Worship Service or Sunday School class was something that I almost never did. I received about 7 years of perfect attendance badges as a child and held my parents responsible for my missing several years of badges when they forced me to go on vacation with them! At the age of 9, I attended a worship service where I, once again, heard the gospel presented. Listening at a deeper level on that day, I determined that the information of Christ's actions on my behalf required I actively respond to the truth but "walking the isle" and confessing Christ as my Lord. For me, it was important that my father was with me as I so proudly stood in response to the final hymn on that day.

Before I could be baptized, my church provided me a few weeks of basic theological teaching as I met with several others learning what it meant to be a Christian Disciple. No, I didn't know the meaning of consubstantiation, transubstantiation, how to explain the trinity, or many other things. Yet, I did grasp the basics of the gospel to the fact that Jesus sacrificed his life for me on a cross so that my sins might be forgiven. I understood that baptism was a picture of my full commitment to Jesus as my Lord. I understood that the Lord's Supper was a symbol of the body and blood of Jesus. The teaching prior to my baptism was simple and yet extremely valuable as the 2 Ordinances found in my church clarified my foundational faith for me.

Just as the thief on the cross next to Jesus was promised to be with Jesus in Paradise for his faith, we have our hope in our faith and not our behavior. Let us all give praise that our Lord is so gracious to us with His salvation for we sinners!
